Northwest Iowa Community College hosts informational meetings about their new flexible Business Degree Program

Are you a working adult with many responsibilities, but still know that going back to school to get your degree would be the right choice for you and your family? Check into Northwest Iowa Community College's Business Management Program, B-CAP, a program designed to fit your schedule and busy lifestyle!

How does it work? Classes are broken down into 5 week sessions and meet one evening a week. The tuition rate is locked in for three years for students enrolled in the B-Cap Program. The meeting time and location of NCC's B-CAP program will be established based upon needs of participants who enroll in the program

Tony Chavez, NCC student, stated, "I went to NCC to get my degree, I started college when I graduated from high school, but family needs came first. Now I have the opportunity to finish. My post secondary education is very important to me personally, so that I can be a role model for my children and so that I can earn a better living for my family."

John Sage, NCC graduate, said about going back to school, "I chose to go back to school to make a better life for my family. I would tell anyone thinking about going back to college that it's never too late to start again."

Come and go informational meetings will be held over the next couple of weeks.
